EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Professional skills training and development courses are offered throughout the learning continuum to effectively prepare students for the practice of law. Students hone essential lawyering skills in simulation courses, such as mediation and interviewing, negotiation and counseling; and litigation courses such as trial practice. Students can meet the professional skills requirement by taking those and other practical courses or by taking a clinic course.

FIELD PLACEMENT

Field Placements offer students semester-long opportunities to leave the traditional classroom setting and assist lawyers and judges in the practice of law and the administration of justice. Field Placements enhance the substantive law curriculum through hands-on learning under the close supervision of a Florida A&M University College of Law faculty member. Students in the program will work for judges, government agencies, public interest organizations, non-profit organizations, law firms and corporate legal offices, receiving valuable experience to supplement what they learn in the classroom. Field Placements will provide insight into professional responsibility and the operation of the legal system, and students will develop the practical skills, poise and confidence necessary to be effective practitioners.
